Darren,

Please note comments re brain death from last night.

Unfortunately this is not going to help the situation in ICU.

ICU Bed 1. Currently unoccupied. Bed 2. Currently occupied by a 50 yr old gentleman admitted with Chest Pain. This gent has a 4 day history of chest pain, he has in fact had an Infarct which was missed. Condition stable overnight. Will need referral to TPCH for angio in the near future. Bed 4. This bed is currently occupied by the 63 yr old lady admitted with a Decreased Conscious Level. This lady remains VENTILATED. Dr Patel left instructions that this patients ventilator was to be turned off at 12 MN after relatives had arrived, no brain dead protocols completed and these instructions over-ridden by both the Anaesthetist and ICU Consultant on Call. She will be for same this am. Bed 5. Currently occupied by the 69 yr old gentleman admitted post Repair of AAA. He remains VENTILATED and his condition overnight has remained stable with no change. Still requiring a reasonable amount of respiratory support and unlikely to be extubated today. Bed 6. Currently unoccupied. Bed 7. Currently unoccupied.
